A SPRINGTIME CONTRAST
ON THE DESERT

A gay blossom of yellow atop a giant barrel cactus which sometimes grows six feet tall over a 20-30 year period. They contain a pulp-like substance often reputed to have saved lives on the hot arid western deserts but hardly fits to drink otherwise.

Dear Vicki & Jim,

I'm having a winter holiday Spent a week with Edna & Don Now I'm in the desert having a fine time & wonderful weather 75° to day, I go swimming most days in a warm mineral pool unless the wind comes up. I'm staying with my brother. Hope you're both fine.
